

NORTHFORK LODGE | River Resort, McCall, Idaho

This riverside resort boasts over 10,000 sq. ft. of luxury amenities for discriminating guests, including an indoor pool and spa.

Edgewood provided a custom structural timber frame package with nearly 70,000 B.F. of hand hewn Western Larch timbers in sizes up to 12”X24” and lengths over 40’. The package features 24 trusses spanning up to 40’ in length, and were shipped fully assembled.

Edgewood also provided complete shop drawings with structural engineering for all framing as well as the structural insulated roof panels with custom matching Western Larch 1”x8” finish for the ceiling.

The main room features a heavy timber set of stairs leading to an upper mezzanine. Our exterior hand hewn siding nicely complements the overall timber frame theme.

"Initially, we were told that due to our large open beam design coupled with the huge snow load here in McCall, Idaho, we would have to use glu-lam beams. This was not conducive to the organic look we wanted. Our architect recommended we contact Brian, the owner of Edgewood. He was able to provide a custom timber frame/siding package from standing dead old growth larch logs that beautifully complimented our design. His team was able to engineer the building using these rare timbers (#one, select structural, dense grade) to handle the snow load and give us a one of a kind building - true problem solvers!"
